Chemistry for Non-Chemists

Tuesday 27 November 2018, SCI, London, UK

Synopsis

Chemistry underpins a vast array of academic, industrial and commercial scientific research, however to those without a chemistry background the terminology and concepts can often appear impenetrable and hinder collaboration. This one day meeting aims to unravel the mysteries of organic and physical organic chemistry through a series of lectures and interactive tutorials. Attendees will develop a deeper understanding of areas such as how molecular structure and functional groups influence chemical reactivity and how molecules interact with their environment, overall enhancing their knowledge and improving interdisciplinary interactions. Further information on the topics covered can be found on the conference webpage: <http://bit.ly/SCI-Non-Chemists>

Registration

Early bird rates before Friday 19 October 2018:

SCI Member £70, SCI Student Member £40,
SCI Subsidised Member £35, Non-Member £145

Standard rates after Friday 19 October 2018:

SCI Member £100, SCI Student Member £55,
SCI Subsidised Member £90, Non-Member £185

Attendees

This event aims to bring together both academic and industry-based scientists who have exposure to aspects of chemistry in their role, working in disciplines such as (but not limited to) biology, biochemistry, DMPK, pharmacy, physics, materials and engineering. It will be pitched at a standard suitable for all career levels from PhD students and postdoctoral researchers to those working in industry at any career point.

SCI Members attending this meeting are able to claim CPD points.
