About SVHE

Sexual violence is a problem encountered by Higher Education Institutions around the world. The increasing number of students disclosing incidents has created challenges both in ensuring the best possible support and response for survivors and in tackling the culture and behaviour associated with sexual violence.

Loughborough University will be hosting a conference on Monday 1 April 2019 which will discuss these issues. With contributions from a number of keynote speakers working in the area of sexual violence, the conference will provide the opportunity to explore issues ranging from: staff-student sexual misconduct, victim blaming, and forced marriage and honour-based abuse.

Confirmed Speakers for this event include:

- Keynote delivered by Jasvinder Sanghera CBE, founder of Karma Nirvana, to discuss forced marriage and honour-based abuse.
- Jessica Eaton, founder of VictimFocus, to discuss sexual violence and victim blaming.
- Dr Antonia Bevan, member of The 1752 Group, to discuss staff-student sexual misconduct in higher education.
- Di Turgoose, co-convenor of the Sexual Violence Domestic Violence Research (SVDV) Network at De Montfort University, to present a guest academic seminar around sexual violence and the impact of technology.
