WINCHESTER

Reflect and engage with contemporary debates regarding student engagement in Higher Education

STUDENT ENGAGEMENT IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Student Engagement in Higher Education at Winchester develops your theoretical and practical knowledge, so you have the ability to critically reflect on and advance student engagement practices across diverse settings.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This course offers an opportunity to learn from sector-leading experts from Winchester's recently established Centre for Student Engagement.

You will develop a critical awareness of the current challenges and agendas facing student engagement in Higher Education, informed by the forefront of contemporary policy and theoretical thinking.

You will learn about multiple practices, policies and strategies to engage students to improve the student experience and boost student satisfaction. You will also reflect on a variety of relevant themes such as diversity, democracy, inclusivity, partnership, representation, power structures, student voice and accessibility.

The course offers opportunities for you to discuss, debate and critically reflect on your own practice to assess how students are engaged in these processes at your own institution. Each assessment will be authentic with real-world application in an academic format.

CORE MODULES*

- Student Engagement Theory into Practice
- Critically Reflecting on Student Engagement

CAREERS

This course is an ideal development opportunity for Higher Education professionals and academics who wish to expand their thinking, gain a qualification and progress within their careers.
