Call for Papers

BUSINESS INFORMATION REVIEW

Contributions are invited for Business Information Review on any topics related to Information Management and / or Knowledge Management in or related to the commercial sector. Topics of papers could include:

- Business information and knowledge management practice
- Case studies of business information and knowledge management projects
- Career and professional development for business information and knowledge management professionals
- Business information resources
- Emerging technology in the workplace
- Professional and ethical best practice
- Implementation of General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR)
- The impact of Brexit on business information work
- Artificial intelligence in business information work
- The value of professional membership and engagement

Papers should be between 3000 and 6000 words in length. Expressions of interest should be emailed to the editors via businessinformationreviewj@gmail.com.

About Business Information Review

Business Information Review (BIR) is published by SAGE Publishing and addresses information and knowledge management within commercial organizations. The journal features papers by professional practitioners and LIS researchers in equal measure, and has a strong record of encouraging and developing practitioner research. The journal also promotes evidence-based professional practice and encourages the sharing of professional expertise and experience. We aim to:

- Report on best current practice in business information provision;
- Evaluate business information resources and anticipate new forms of resource;
- Highlight new professional developments and trends;
- Scan the horizon for longer term developments.

For over forty years Business Information Review has helped develop the careers and practice of commercial librarians, information and knowledge managers, and to promote the commercial libraries, information and knowledge management sector.

Business Information Review publishes a range of different kinds of article, including:

- Professional articles sharing professional expertise and experience
- Research articles reporting on research projects or findings
- Opinion articles discussing an emerging issue or controversy
- Out-of-the-Box articles addressing technological developments
- Initiatives articles addressing changing contexts of professional practice

There are many reasons to publish with Business Information Review:

- Prompt review and production time – BIR aims to maintain time from submission to publication as prompt and timely as possible.
- Indexed in Scopus – The journal is included in the Scopus indexing database.
- Offers Open Access Publishing – BIR offers SAGE Choice publishing to all of its authors, allowing articles to be made Gold Open Access upon publication, to comply with funding body requirements.
- Strong international readership – over 45,000 downloads annually from around the world of BIR-published articles.

SAGE

If you are interested in writing for Business Information Review, or would like more information about the journal then do please contact the editors Claire Laybats and Luke Tredinnick via businessinformationreviewj@gmail.com