

Intersectionality: Southern/Northern Perspectives

Wednesday 25th January

ArtsOne Lecture Theatre

16.30-18.00

Tea & coffee will be served in the ArtsOne Foyer from 16.00

Tommaso Milani	University of the Witwatersrand
Shirley Tate	University of Leeds
Quentin Williams	University of the Western Cape
Nira Yuval-Davis	University of East London
Erez Levon	Queen Mary University of London

An interdisciplinary panel discussion on how intersectionality is articulated across different disciplines and the challenges and opportunities presented by applying intersectionality theory in different geopolitical contexts (and in particular the global South).

The event will feature brief presentations from each of the panelists on how they use intersectionality in their own work, followed by a broader discussion of some of the issues involved in using intersectionality in both scholarly research and political activism.

This event is free and open to the public. For catering purposes, please indicate your intention to attend by clicking here.